6. Auction for Internal Shortages at Vachana

The settlement of trades on the Stock Exchange/Clearing Corporation is processed on a net basis, aligned to a settlement number. When clients who have conducted delivery sale transactions fail to deliver stocks toward their obligations, and other clients have made corresponding (counter) purchases during the same settlement, the failure to deliver the shares results in the purchasing clients not receiving them. This situation is referred to as an Internal Shortage.

Vachana has appointed NSE Clearing Limited (NCL) as its designated Clearing Corporation, responsible for clearing all trades carried out by Vachana's clients.

To facilitate the resolution of internal shortages, TM/CM shall manage such shortages through the voluntary auction process. The National Clearing Limited (NCL) will identify pay-in shortages, including internal shortages, and conduct auctions for internal shortages of its members.

In the event of a short delivery by a client, they will be debited an amount equivalent to 20% above the closing rate on the day of sale. The securities that were short-delivered will be purchased from NSE Clearing Ltd under the Voluntary Auction Facility on the auction day. The purchase consideration, inclusive of all statutory taxes, levies, and fees, will then be transferred to the account of the client who sold and short- delivered the securities. Furthermore, the provisional margin entry posted on the client's account will subsequently be reversed.

- a. If an auction is not conducted due to reasons such as valuation debit not paid by the member, excess pay-in by any member/client, corporate actions in the security, an unsuccessful auction by the Clearing Corporation (CC), file not uploaded by the custodian member or any other reason specified from time to time, a closeout entry shall be passed.

The closeout amount will be the higher of the highest price prevailing on NSE from the trading day until the auction day or 20% above the official settlement price on the auction day. This amount will be debited from the seller's account (who failed to deliver the securities) and credited to the buyer (who did not receive delivery).

- b. Additionally, after the netting off of securities between equity market and derivative trades, all internal shortages arising out of non-delivery of securities will also be handled via the Voluntary

Auction mode. If National Clearing Limited (NCL) is unable to take part in the voluntary auction due to any of the reasons mentioned above, then the transaction will be settled through a closeout.

The closeout amount will be equivalent to the highest price prevailing in the NSE from the day of trading until the auction day, or 20% above the official settlement price on the auction day, whichever is higher. This amount will be debited from the client's account who sold and did not deliver the securities, and a subsequent credit will be given to the buyer of the securities who did not receive delivery.

7. Shortages in obligations arising out of internal netting of trades.

BSE has a window wherein the internal short deliveries can get auctioned as per the normal auction process. Internal short deliveries are not covered by the auction conducted on the NSE. It is due to this limitation on the NSE we follow the procedure as mentioned below:

a. The client may not receive shares on T+2 in case there is an internal shortage situation with VACHANA i.e. the buyer and seller are both VACHANA clients and the seller defaults in delivery due to which the buyer may not receive the shares.

b. In case of an internal shortage firstly the defaulting seller would be debited with value as on the previous day of the pay- in-day plus 30% for the default till such time the auction process is completed

c. In case there is an internal shortage in BSE the exchange conducts an auction through which the shares would be purchased and delivered to the buyer. The seller would be debited at the rate at which the exchange would have purchased these shares. Additionally, brokerage, statutory costs and other incidental charges including penalty for non-delivery may be debited to the client. In case the exchange is unable to purchase these shares, the exchange will inform ZERODHA of a close out rate, at which the buyer would be allowed credit and the seller would be debited for the same amount.

d. If securities cannot be purchased from market due to any reason whatsoever on T+3 day they can be covered from the market on any subsequent trading days. In case any reason whatsoever (any error or omission) any delay in covering of securities leads to higher losses, stock broker will not be liable for the same. Where the delivery is matched partially or fully at the Exchange Clearing, the delivery and debits/credits shall be as per Exchange Debits and Credits.

e. In cases of securities having corporate actions all cases of short delivery of cum transactions which cannot be auctioned on cum basis or where the cum basis auction payout is after the book closure / record date, would be compulsory closed out at higher of 10% above the official closing price on the auction day or the highest traded price from first trading day of the settlement till the auction day.

8. Conditions under which a client may not be allowed to take further position or the broker may close the existing position of a client

We have margin-based RMS System. Client may take exposure up to the amount of margin available with us. Client may not be allowed to take position in case of non-availability/ shortage of margin as per our RMS policy of the company. The existing position of the client is also liable to square off/ close out without giving notice due to shortage of margin/non making of payment for their pay-in obligation/outstanding debts.

9. De-registering a client Not withstanding anything to the contrary stated in the Mandatory and Voluntary Client Registration Documents the Member shall be entitled to terminate the Mandatory and Voluntary Client Registration Documents with immediate effect in any of the following circumstances:

- a. If the action of the Client are prima facie illegal/ improper or such as to manipulate the price of any securities or disturb the normal/proper functioning of the market, either alone or in conjunction with others.
- b. If there is any commencement of a legal process against the Client under any law in force.
- c. On the death/lunacy or other disability of the Client.
- d. If a receiver, administrator or liquidator has been appointed or allowed to be appointed of all or any part of the undertaking of the Client.
- e. If the Client has voluntarily or compulsorily become the subject of proceedings under any bankruptcy or insolvency law or being a company, goes into liquidation or has a receiver appointed in respect of its assets or refers itself to the Board for Industrial and Financial Reconstruction or under any other law providing protection as a relief undertaking.
- f. If the Client being a partnership firm, has any steps taken by the Client and/ or its partners for dissolution of the partnership.
- g. If the Client have taken or suffered to be taken any action for its reorganization, liquidation or dissolution.
- h. If the Client has made any material misrepresentation of facts, including (without limitation) in relation to the Security.
- i. If there is reasonable apprehension that the Client is unable to pay its debts or Client has admitted its inability to pay its debts as they become payable.
- j. If the Client suffers any adverse material change in his/her/its financial position or defaults in any other agreement with the Member.
- k. If the Client is in breach of any term, condition or covenant of this Mandatory and Voluntary Client Registration Documents.
- l. If any covenant or warranty of the Client is incorrect or untrue in any material respect.

However notwithstanding any termination of the Mandatory and Voluntary Client Registration Documents, all transactions made under/pursuant to this Mandatory and Voluntary Client Registration Documents shall be subject to all terms and conditions of this Mandatory and Voluntary Client Registration Documents and parties to this Mandatory and Voluntary Client Registration Documents submit to exclusive jurisdiction of courts of law at the place of execution of this Mandatory and Voluntary Client Registration Documents by Member. No consideration to trade should be made without thoroughly understanding and reviewing the risks involved in such trading. If you are unsure, you must seek professional advice on the same. In considering whether to trade, you should be aware of or must get acquainted with the following:

Basic Risks

1.1. Risk of Higher Volatility: Volatility refers to the dynamic changes in price that a security/derivatives contract undergoes when trading activity continues on the Stock Exchanges. Generally, higher the volatility of a security/derivatives contract, greater is its price swings. There may be normally greater volatility in thinly traded securities/derivatives contracts than in active securities /derivatives contracts. As a result of volatility, your order may only be partially executed or not executed at all, or the price at which your order got executed may be substantially different from the last traded price or change substantially thereafter, resulting in notional or real losses.

1.2. Risk of Lower Liquidity: Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and/or sell securities/derivatives contracts expeditiously at a competitive price and with minimal price difference. Generally, it is assumed that more the numbers of orders available in a market, greater is the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity, it is easier for investors to buy and/or sell securities/derivatives contracts swiftly and with minimal price difference, and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities/derivatives contracts purchased or sold. There may be a risk of lower liquidity in some securities/derivatives contracts as compared to active securities/derivatives contracts. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or may be executed with relatively greater price difference or may not be executed at all.

1.2.1. Buying or selling securities/derivatives contracts as part of a day trading strategy may also result into losses, because in such a situation, securities/derivatives contracts may have to be sold/purchased at low/high prices, compared to the expected price levels, so as not to have any open position or obligation to deliver or receive a security/derivatives contract.

1.3. Risk of Wider Spreads: Spread refers to the difference in best buy price and best sell price. It represents the differential between the price of buying a security/derivatives contract and immediately selling it or vice versa. Lower liquidity and higher volatility may result in wider than normal spreads for less liquid or illiquid securities/derivatives contracts. This in turn will hamper better price formation.

1.4. Risk-reducing orders: The placing of orders (e.g., "stop loss" orders, or "limit" orders) which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts may not be effective many a time because rapid movement in market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders.

1.4.1. A "market" order will be executed promptly, subject to availability of orders on opposite side, without regard to price and that, while the customer may receive a prompt execution of a "market" order, the execution may be at available prices of outstanding orders, which satisfy the order quantity, on price time priority. It may be understood that these prices may be significantly different from the last traded price or the best price in that security/derivatives contract.

1.4.2. A "limit" order will be executed only at the "limit" price specified for the order or a better price. However, while the customer receives price protection, there is a possibility that the order may not be executed at all.

1.4.3. A stop loss order is generally placed "away" from the current price of a stock/derivatives contract, and such order gets activated if and when the security/derivatives contract reaches, or trades through, the stop price. Sell stop orders are entered ordinarily below the current price, and buy stop orders are entered ordinarily above the current price. When the security/derivatives contract reaches the pre-determined price, or trades through such price, the stop loss order converts to a market/limit order and is executed at the limit or better. There is no assurance therefore that the limit order will be executable since a security/derivatives contract might penetrate the pre-determined price, in which case, the risk of such order not getting executed arises, just as with a regular limit order.

1.5. Risk of News Announcements: News announcements that may impact the price of stock/derivatives contract may occur during trading, and when combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may suddenly cause an unexpected positive or negative movement in the price of the security/contract.

1.6. Risk of Rumours: Rumours about companies/commodities/currencies at times float in the market through word of mouth, newspapers, websites or news agencies, etc. The investors should be wary of and should desist from acting on rumours.

1.7. System Risk

1.7.1. High volume trading will frequently occur at the market opening and before market close. Such high volumes may also occur at any point in the day. These may cause delays in order execution or confirmation.

1.7.2. During periods of volatility, on account of market participants continuously modifying their order quantity or prices or placing fresh orders, there may be delays in order execution and its confirmations.

1.7.3. Under certain market conditions, it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position in the market at a reasonable price or at all, when there are no outstanding orders either on the buy side or the sell side, or if trading is halted in a security/derivatives contract due to any action on account of unusual trading activity or security/derivatives contract hitting circuit filters or for any other reason.

1.8. System/Network Congestion: Trading on exchanges is in electronic mode, based on satellite/leased line based communications, combination of technologies and computer systems to place and route orders. Thus, there exists a possibility of communication failure or system problems or slow or delayed response from system or trading halt, or any such other problem/glitch whereby not being able to establish access to the trading system/network, which may be beyond control and may result in delay in processing or not processing buy or sell orders either in part or in full. You are cautioned to note that although these problems may be temporary in nature, but when you have outstanding open positions or unexecuted orders, these represent a risk because of your obligations to settle all executed transactions.

2. As far as Derivatives segments are concerned, please note and get yourself acquainted with the following additional features:

2.1. Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing": In the derivatives market, the amount of margin is small relative to the value of the derivatives contract so the transactions are 'leveraged' or 'geared'. Derivatives trading, which is conducted with a relatively small amount of margin, provides the possibility of great profit or loss in comparison with the margin amount.

But transactions in derivatives carry a high degree of risk.

You should therefore completely understand the following statements before actually trading in derivatives and also trade with caution while taking into account one's circumstances, financial resources, etc. If the prices move against you, you may lose a part of or whole margin amount in a relatively short period of time. Moreover, the loss may exceed the original margin amount.

2.1.1. Futures trading involve daily settlement of all positions. Every day the open positions are marked to market based on the closing level of the index/derivatives contract. If the contract has moved against you, you will be required to deposit the amount of loss (notional) resulting from such movement. This amount will have to be paid within a stipulated time frame, generally before commencement of trading on next day.

2.1.2. If you fail to deposit the additional amount by the deadline or if an outstanding debt occurs in your account, the stock broker may liquidate a part of or the whole position or substitute securities. In this case, you will be liable for any losses incurred due to such close-outs.

2.1.3. Under certain market conditions, an investor may find it difficult or impossible to execute transactions. For example, this situation can occur due to factors such as illiquidity i.e. when there are insufficient bids or offers or suspension of trading due to price limit or circuit breakers etc.

2.1.4. In order to maintain market stability, the following steps may be adopted: changes in the margin rate, increases in the cash margin rate or others. These new measures may also be applied to the existing open interests. In such conditions, you will be required to put up additional margins or reduce your positions.

2.1.5. You must ask your broker to provide the full details of derivatives contracts you plan to trade i.e. the contract specifications and the associated obligations.

2.2. Currency specific risks

2.2.1. The profit or loss in transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts, whether they are traded in your own or another jurisdiction, will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to another currency.

2.2.2. Under certain market conditions, you may find it difficult or impossible to liquidate a position. This can occur, for example when a currency is deregulated or fixed trading bands are widened.

2.2.3. Currency prices are highly volatile. Price movements for currencies are influenced by, among other things: changing supply-demand relationships; trade, fiscal, monetary, exchange control programs and policies of governments; foreign political and economic events and policies; changes in national and international interest rates and inflation; currency devaluation; and sentiment of the market place. None of these factors can be controlled by any individual advisor and no assurance can be given that an advisor's advice will result in profitable trades for a participating customer or that a customer will not incur losses from such events.

2.3. Risk of Option holders

2.3.1. An option holder runs the risk of losing the entire amount paid for the option in a relatively short period of time. This risk reflects the nature of an option as a wasting asset which becomes worthless when it expires. An option holder who neither sells his option in the secondary market nor exercises it prior to its expiration will necessarily lose his entire investment in the option. If the price of the underlying does not change in the anticipated direction before the option expires, to an extent sufficient to cover the cost of the option, the investor may lose all or a significant part of his investment in the option.

2.3.2. The Exchanges may impose exercise restrictions and have absolute authority to restrict the exercise of options at certain times in specified circumstances.

2.4. Risk of Option Writers

2.4.1. If the price movement of the underlying is not in the anticipated direction, the option writer runs the risks of losing substantial amount.

2.4.2. The risk of being an option writer may be reduced by the purchase of other options on the same underlying interest and thereby assuming a spread position or by acquiring other types of hedging positions in the options markets or other markets. However, even where the writer has assumed a spread or other hedging position, the risks may still be significant. A spread position is not necessarily less risky than a simple 'long' or 'short' position.

2.4.3. Transactions that involve buying and writing multiple options in combination or buying or writing options in combination with buying or selling short the underlying interests, present additional risks to investors. Combination transactions, such as option spreads, are more complex than buying or writing a single option. And it should be further noted that, as in any area of investing, a complexity not well understood is, in itself, a risk factor. While this is not to suggest that combination strategies should not be considered, it is advisable, as is the case with all investments in options, to consult with someone who is experienced and knowledgeable with respect to the risks and potential re-wards of combination transactions under various market circumstances.
